Athletic Committee Report Approved At Council Meeting

Proposed agenda which was to be followed at the Interfraternity Council meeting held Wednesday, Oct. 21, at the Student Center, was sidetracked by an athletic committee report dealing with "school spirit versus fraternity spirit."

Aside from the routine reports from officers and committees, and matters of new and old business, more time was spent on an athletic committee report presented by Herbert Scogg, Kappa Sigma.

IFC approved this report by agreeing not to display fraternity names on pep rally posters which are placed in front of the fraternity houses, on automobiles, or displayed as banners. But the Greek letters may be used, and this applies only to the seven-week closed rushing period. "Let's make our banners for the team and let's get behind the school," said Scogg, "and not just make the banner to display the fraternity name." The fine is $25 if the rules are violated. It was announced that rules will be immediately issued to all fraternities.

Also along the athletic line, touch football was discussed and Scogg added that it may be abandoned if accidents keep occurring.

David Freedheim, Zeta Beta Tau, president of IFC, clarified the upperclass rush status. He stated that an upperclassman that has at least a 2. average may go active the same semester he pledges.

A representative of IFC will attend the National Interfraternity Conference Nov. 27-28 in Cincinnati, and the council decided to reimburse the funds to send this person. It has not yet been announced how much it will cost or who will attend.

Law Scholarship Applications Ready

College seniors interested in a career of legal leadership may apply now for a $6,600, three-year Root-Tilden Scholarship offered at the New York University School of Law, according to the dean of the law school.

Applications for the 20 Root-Tilden Scholarships must be made by Feb. 15, 1954. Final selections will be announced late in April and recipients will begin their study at NYU in September. Those interested in applying should do so immediately to Dean of the School of Law, New York University Law Center, New York 3, N. Y.

Candidates must be over 20 years of age, but not over 28, when their law training begins at NYU, and must be unmarried male citizens of the U.S.

The second meeting will be held Oct. 31, at Hunter College. It will be the seventh annual meeting of the National Association for Remedial Teaching, of which Dr. Gesling is a board member. The subject for this meeting will be "Adjusting to Individual Differences in Remediation."

Last Chance For Frosh, Soph Pix

on by 10:30 a.m. today may have them taken in front of the BGSU sign west of the Library at 11 or 12 a.m. today. This is your last chance to get your class picture in the 1953-54 Key.

HURRAH! The fire burns and the students cheer at 5:30 Saturday morning during the traditional pre-dawn pep rally which was held east of the Art Building. Wind-blown sparks and a drizzly rain did not dampen the spirits of the students above and all bravely ignored the inconveniences of hour, weather, and sparks, to let everyone know that they were behind the team "through sleet or storm or wind or hail."

New Sister Group Writes Constitution; Will Elect Officers

Steering committee for the newly founded sister group to Alpha Phi Omega, men's service fraternity, met Wednesday night, to prepare a constitution. The constitution will be reviewed, anticipating adoption at the meeting tomorrow night at 7 p.m. in 303A, according to Kathryn Metz, a member of the group.

Miss Metz said it is still possible for girls to join, and those interested should attend tomorrow night's meeting. The group plans to elect officers, and ask volunteers for coming projects. Immediate projects before the group are the Blood Bank, and preparing banners for the men's and women's gyms for Homecoming.

Public Relations Committee Divided Into Five Groups

A breakdown of the Student Senate public relations committee was approved by Senate and will take effect this semester. The group was separated into five subcommittees: rally, publicity, research, Senate relations, and administration and faculty relations. Present members of the PR committee will be assigned to head these groups.

Policy and coordination for these committees will be made by these subheads and Donald Brenner, PR chairman.

The social committee established by Senate in the past is now defunct. A group of both senators and faculty as a University committee will be in charge of Student Government Association teas, the University-Anniversary prom, and May Day. This committee will be responsible to Senate and the coordinator of student activities, Stuart Givens.

Members of the social committee will be selected by Senate Monday night. At least two members of the committee will be Greeks and two will be representatives of the independent students. No more than one member of any social organization will be on the committee.

Judges Will Select House Decorations Saturday Morning

Homecoming house decorations will be judged on Saturday morning, Oct. 31, preceding the Homecoming game, according to Prof. Wilbur J. Abell, chairman of the committee arranging for the judging of the decorations.

Judges have been selected but will not be announced until after the presentation of the trophies preceding the game. Alpha Chi Omega sorority will give a trophy both to the best decorated men's and women's house or dormitory.

Decorations will be judged according to originality, appropriateness to the Homecoming theme, proportion to the size of the house, attractiveness and workmanship. The cost of the decorations must not exceed $15.

Students Carol Conley and Sandra Williams assist Professor Abell on the committee.

Shuck Is Chairman Of Revision Group

Emerson Shuck, dean of the graduate school, has been working as chairman of the constitutional revision committee of the Midwest Conference on Graduate Study and Research. Purpose of this committee is to revise the constitution of this organization.

The revised constitution will be sent to the member institutions for study before a final vote in March at the annual meeting in Chicago.

This organization is one of five in the United States. The other organizations are the Southern, New England, Mid-Atlantic, and Pacific. The Midwest Conference is the largest extending from Ohio to Colorado and from Montana to New Mexico. Bowling Green has been a member since 1947.

The revision committee is composed of Dean Shuck, Dean Walter Loehwing, State University of Iowa; and Dean Paul Stransbury, University of Toledo.

Micro - Reader Is Space Saver

By JACK CLARKE

Through the use of the micro-reader room, material of a scholarly nature may be found, according to Dr. Paul F. Leedy, University librarian. Some material that would otherwise be inaccessible, because of the space or the scarcity, is available to persons who seek information on specific subject matter.

The preservation of newspapers such as the New York Times, and periodicals such as scientific journals is an important phase of micro-filming. The use of micro-film and micro-cards not only saves space but considerable time as well. Instead of searching through stacks of newspapers and periodicals, one may simply obtain the desired material from the files. The files are arranged by classification according to specific subject fields.

One of the two most important literary historical reviews of the 18th century, covering the period 1756-1792, is condensed on 35 mm

A Phi O Sets Blood Bank Quota At 125 Pints Today

The first of two scheduled Red Cross Bloodmobile visits to the campus this semester is slated for the Rec Hall today from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. A quota of 125 pints has been set.

Student appointment forms have been sent out to those who have turned in their parental release forms. Those who have not done so may schedule their appointment with the nurse in charge. Students will be released from classes, if necessary, to meet the donor schedule.

Court Hears Case On Petition Validity; Elections Challenged

Student Court was to render its decision yesterday afternoon on the validity of the Daley petition protesting the action of Student Senate in selecting members for the University faculty-student committees.

The case was heard by Court last Thursday and Chief Justice Jerry Helwig announced that the decision would be given Monday.

In its special session yesterday, Student Court was also to hear the case protesting the elections held last Wednesday for Student Senate positions.

Kappa Delta and Alpha Phi sororities listed two points in their protest of the elections:

1. Freshmen were allowed to vote for upperclass Senators during part of the day.
2. Directions given to voters on the procedure of voting varied during the day.

A decision on this will probably be rendered Thursday, Helwig said.

Signers of the petition protesting selection of committee members stated that the action of Student Senate was prejudicial to their interests "as members of all classes and as fully recognized students of this University" because it "did not always attempt to publicly select most qualified and most interested students for these committee positions."

Question used by Student Court in deciding on the case was: Is the petition submitted by Richard Daley and others valid under Article 7 of the Student Government constitution, which begins "Whenever any action taken by Student Senate is considered by any class or other student organization as prejudicial to its interest . . ."

Daley, defending the petition, suggested that it was submitted under article seven of the Senate constitution. This article states that any class or other student group may answer any action by Senate considered to be unfair by petition.

Questioning the validity of the petition was Charles Green, president of Student Senate. Green said he felt that this particular petition did not meet all the necessary requirements to fall under the jurisdiction of article seven.

Students over 21 do not require parental releases, but must sign blood donor forms. Faculty members will be scheduled in their free time. Bloodmobile visits in the past two years have collected 1,020 pints of blood here.

Dr. James Russell Coffey, associate professor of health and physical education, is chairman of the University committee for the drive. He is assisted by Samuel Cooper, associate professor of health and physical education; John Bunn, Director of Residential and Plant Operations; Stuart Givens, Coordinator of Student Activities; and Miss Gertrude Epler, associate professor of health and physical education.

James Haskins is chairman of the Alpha Phi Omega Blood Bank Committee. The national service honorary is assisting in the drive. Other APhiO committee members are Jack Moffatt, Kay Dickerson, Charles Williams, and Ronald Eislering.

The foundation encourages senior science majors who expect to receive a B.A. degree during the 1953-1954 academic year to apply for the awards. Postdoctoral fellowships are available to individuals who have received a doctoral degree.

Applications for post doctoral fellowships must be submitted before Dec. 15, graduate applications before Jan. 4. Detailed information and application forms may be obtained from the Fellowship Office, National Research Council, 2101 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, 25, D.C.

In Our Opinion

SICSIC Eludes News

We were all set to editorially laud the activities of SICSIC in connection with the pep rally Saturday morning. However, it seems that a few of our alert photographers scared off SICSIC when they tried to get a picture of the members at work. Consequently, we suppose that the B-G News is partly responsible for the seeming inactivity of the group over the week end.

Inactivity last year created a strange situation—a secret-membership organization so secret that only juniors and seniors on campus really know what the group is or does.

SICSIC is a secret organization, founded in 1946, to promote school spirit. It is composed of six men, two from each upperclass, who remain anonymous to the general student body. Each spring two freshmen are chosen to replace the graduating seniors, and these two are initiated the following fall. At the May Honors Day ceremonies the names of the graduating senior members are announced.

It is always a matter of speculation during the year as to who SICSIC members are. Movements of possible members are carefully watched before pep rallies and games for signs of SICSIC activity. Actually, it is easy to recognize a member of the group when he is engaged in the group's projects. He'll be wearing a mask or hood, overalls, and a hat, according to a personal interview report from one of last year's B-G News staffers.

Last year SICSIC had to move its base of operations twice, once from a private home, and the second time from the basement of the PA Bldg., where its paints kept disappearing. The permanent headquarters is a secret. The only means of communication with SICSIC is through President McDonald's secretary, who acts as liaison for the group.

SICSIC is an established tradition, well worth keeping alive to build more campus spirit. The group has taken on new spark this year, as the News photographers learned, when SICSIC cleverly eluded them early Saturday morning.

Note to those few-and-far-between persons who sometimes try to keep their names out of the paper:

The editor of the Dahlonga (Ga.) Nugget, has an unusual method of answering complaints about unfavorable publicity. On his editorial page, he runs the slogan: "If you don't want it published in the Nugget, please don't let it happen."

Donors Respond

In the two years that Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, has sponsored the Blood Bank on campus, response from students and faculty has been increasing. Response to today's blood drive has been equally good, with about 130 persons signed up and others expected to be "walk-in" volunteers.

With the first drives, APhiO's biggest job was to recruit persons to donate their blood. Now they report that it is mostly a matter of being able to handle the number of students and faculty who wish to donate. A great many of those who were donors in early bloodmobile collections will be back this time to give for the second, third, and some for the fourth times.

Those who donated in the first drives two years ago will remember the long lines and confusion connected with the entire procedure. With the improved response from students and faculty, Alpha Phi Omega, the local Red Cross chapter and the Cleveland Bloodmobile unit have done an increasingly better job of handling the donations, and eliminating as much confusion as possible.

Official Announcements

Business staff of Eyas will meet at 6:30 p. m. Thursday in the lounge of the English Bldg.

The lecture by Dr. C. R. Longwell scheduled for 8 p. m. Nov. 6, has been canceled due to illness. Dr. Longwell has agreed to come later in this year. Another announcement will be mailed at that time.

Sub-Committees of the Public Relations committee still have a few positions open. Apply before Wednesday, Oct. 29, at the Student Center.

The Alpha Phi Omega Used Book Store will be open Wednesday and Thursday Oct. 28 and 29 from 2 to 4 p. m. to return money to students. If students do not come down these two days the store will not be held responsible.

Refund Possible From Health Plan

If a student applies for the health plan and then drops out of school, he may either accept a pro-rated refund or let the policy continue until its expiration date. Oct. 17 will be the last day that students will be able to subscribe to this plan until the beginning of the second semester.

Under a special provision of the plan, benefits are paid in addition to any benefits to which a student may be entitled under another personal policy or membership in any hospital association.

Current Disc Albums Sales Show 'Records Are Better Than Ever'

By CAROL FISCHER

"Records are better than ever," recording companies are saying as they look over record sales and monetary returns. After hearing "Music for Lovers Only," by Jackie Gleason, "Sketches on Standards," by Stan Kenton, and "Penthouse Serenade," by Nat King Cole, we have the same opinion.

Gleason's album is described as "a wisp of cigarette smoke in the soft lamp light, a tinkle of a glass, a hushed whisper . . . and music for lovers only." The album contains "I'm in the Mood for Love," "I Only Have Eyes for You," "Love is Here to Stay," and others featuring Bobby Hackett on trumpet.

The King is at his best in his "Penthouse Serenade" album, including: "Laura," "Somebody Loves Me," "Penthouse Serenade," and a list of others.

Designed expressly for the college crowd is Ray Anthony's "Campus Rumpus," "The Continental," "They Didn't Believe Me," "Walking My Baby Back Home," "It's De-Lovely," "Dancing on the Ceiling," "True Blue Lou," and "Smoke Rings."

A unique new record on a 45-extended play is the duet with Mary Martin and Ethel Merman. They recorded it as they sang through a series of numbers on Ford's 50th Anniversary Show. Single records such as the Hill-topper's "Love Walked In," and the Four Freshmen's rendition of "It Happened Once Before," are well-liked on campus. Along this same musical trend are "The Moon is Blue," and "Return to Paradise," by The Silver Strings.

The many Kenton lovers thrill to the sounds heard in "Safranski," and the flip side, which is "Opus in Pastels." "My Lady," and "Improvisation," feature Lee Konitz, and are found in Kenton's "New Concepts of Artistry in Rhythm."

A few novelty tunes from the musical revue "Leonard Sillman's New Faces of 1952," that are still played constantly are: "Monotonous," by Eartha Kitt, and "Boston Beguine," by Alice Ghostley. Joni James is taking her place with the all-time greats with records like "My Love, My Love," "Is It Any Wonder," and "Almost Always."

Another extended play from England is the recording by The Melachrino Strings, which includes: "September Song," "Clopin Clopant," "Diane," and "Too Young."

Still being heard here and there are the few so-called nursery rhymes such as "Little Blue Riding Hood," and "Saint George and the Dragonet."

Lines at Deadline

For those of you who noticed that the campus streetlights were on Friday morning, and worried about the state burning up excess taxes, Richard E. Flocke, director of special services, has an explanation.

The lights were on to test the newly repaired lights on the street behind the Ad Bldg. leading to Fraternity Row. Until the repairs, the lights on that street had not been working this year.

With the lights on the street, fraternity brothers should be able to recognize each other when they meet on the sidewalk these dark nights.

Students in the art department now have a full-time, professional model for drawing classes—five feet tall, slender, fair complexioned, and hollow-cheeked. Only one catch—this model happens to be a skeleton, made of plastic by the Medical - Plastics' Laboratory in Texas.

"Are you allergic to chickens, chicken feathers, or eggs?" ask the nurses at Johnston Hospital just before they give the varsity basketball men their flu shots. Ohio Flag Raised For Special Events, Sesquicentennial

Every day many of us cross the path of the tall, 100-foot, silver flagpole directly in front of the Administration Bldg. But how many of us have craned our necks to observe the small, triangular flag that is drifting just below Old Glory?

The mystery has been solved. It was discovered to be an Ohio State flag.

According to John W. Bunn, director of residential and plant operations, the University did not own an Ohio flag until a year ago when three new ones were ordered. Mr. Bunn said it was not until this year that the University had a chance to raise the flag, and it is now flying in honor of Ohio's sesquicentennial celebration.

The flag will be taken down Dec. 31, 1953, at which time the sesquicentennial celebration ends. The Ohio flag will be raised on special occasions after the new year.

Manhart Meets With Credit Men

Lewis F. Manhart, associate professor of Business Administration, held a meeting Monday with the officers of the Toledo Association of Credit Men to complete plans for their meeting at the Commons, Nov. 17.

The association holds an area meeting each month. The November dinner meeting will feature a speaker, who will discuss some phase of business and credit management.

Students, faculty, and the public will be invited, according to Professor Manhart.

Very few job opportunities exist for students, Robert McKay, director of student employment, announced. Many students are searching for jobs, and it is Mr. McKay's hope that openings occur in the immediate future.

Chem Building Has Reference Library

A reference room for all advance chemistry majors and faculty is located in the southwest corner of the Chemistry Bldg., said Dr. W. Heinlen Hall, professor of chemistry.

The room contains reference books available to all juniors and seniors and bound volumes of the American Chemical Society publications.

This room is only a temporary unit and when a new science structure is built, a library of science will be included.

Personnel Manager To Address Class

Stanley W. Williams, personnel manager of the Bowling Green branch of the H. J. Heinz Co., will discuss "Workmen's Compensation Problems" in the Insurance 461 class.

He will speak at the regular class period at 10 a. m. Wednesday, Oct. 28, in 402A. Students interested in hearing this talk may attend the class.

English Selections Broadcast Weekly

A half-hour radio program featuring members of the English faculty can be heard each Monday at 6:30 p. m. over WBGU according to Sidney Stone, director of the campus radio station.

"The programs are tape recorded and, after presentation on WBGU, are sent to Ohio State University where they are broadcast on WOSU, the Ohio State campus outlet," said Mr. Stone.

The enrollment of the first summer sessions in 1915 numbered 615 students.

Crashing through the line after pulling a quarterback sneak during the third quarter of Saturday's game, Bill Bradshaw picks up several yards for Bowling Green.

TU Ekes By Falcons 20-19, Bradshaw Stars

By HAL VAN TASSEL

Coach Clair Dunn, head coach of the Toledo Rockets, said after the game, "We were lucky." Call it luck if you want to, but the score of the Toledo-Bowling Green football game Saturday was 20-19 in favor of the Rocket 11.

With that lucky team there were such outstanding performers such as Mel Triplett, "Tarp" Taormina, Rick Kaser, and Bert Warrick. It also might have been luck, but the TU backfield threw up the strongest running attack of the season with 352 yards gained by rushing. This includes the Miami game.

Down to the final minute of play it was a battle. Bowling Green tried to score in the last two minutes, but three passes fell incomplete. Three of these were dropped by Falcon gridders. Bradshaw, who completed 7 out of 14 passes, just couldn't find the right man at the right place, who could hold on to the ball. Kaser intercepted the fourth one to stop the last Bowling Green attempt for victory.

Toledo took possession of the pigskin and ate up the remainder of the game.

Bradshaw Tops

Bradshaw, as expected, was the key man in the Falcon offense. He passed, ran, and kicked his way to become the outstanding player of the day. His passing mark was good for 180 yards. The talented toe averaged 43.4 yards per kick and he lugged the ball for more than half the total Bowling Green rushing average.

Toledo, however, also had its share of individual stars. They had the specialists. Mel Triplett was cautiously blasting the local 11 line for that first down. Taormina, the wiry speedster who led the Mid-American Conference race for individual rushing, was around when the Rockets needed a quick jaunt around the ends. Kaser, like Bradshaw, was the Toledo triple threat player. Bert Warrick could also be tabbed star, if for nothing more than the 57-yard touchdown run that he made.

2,500 Attend

The 2,500 drizzle-soaked fans probably thought that Bowling Green was on its way to the second victory of the season when they marched 84 yards for a touchdown in the last quarter. The Falcons were out in front 19-13.

Toledo, however, had designs of retaliation. It took the Rockets about five minutes and thirteen plays to drive the football into the end zone and tie the score. The play that beat the Falcons was an Andrzejewski pass to Sonny Smith.

Cooper Expecting Good Swim Season, Losses Not Heavy

The 1953-54 swimming season will get under way, Monday, Nov. 16, when the varsity squad and freshman prospects will meet with Coach Sam Cooper. Plans will be drawn up for the coming season and an election will be held for team captain.

Falcons must post a perfect record to better last year's fine performance in which they won all the dual meets, The Ohio College Relays, and placed second, behind Ohio U, in the Mid-American Relays. Cooper says, "Ohio should be the team to beat again this year." He added, "If our present varsity, along with the coming sophomores, live up to expectations, we should have one of our better seasons."

Some of the men Cooper will be counting on this year are Herb Seogg, Jim Longnecker, Fred Gerbing, Ron Dall, Bill Cunningham, Ed Levy, and Bill Miller.

Backing these men up, will be a number of promising sophomores including Dave Hamilton, Paul Atkinson, Jim Elliott, Don Schumacher, Ralph Carbonero, and Bud Cross. BG will miss three of last year's team, namely, John Bruce, George Ensign, and Ron Lauber.

Aside from the Mid-American Relays, which will be held at the Natatorium, Jan. 9, the schedule has not been confirmed or approved by the athletic board. The Ohio College Relays, which Bowling Green has dominated for the past several seasons, has been discontinued.

Speech And Hearing Therapy Training Shows Wide Development On Campus

Speech and hearing therapy is a field which is coming into its own of late. Likewise, Bowling Green is noted for its speech and hearing therapy training program. According to Dr. Melvin Hyman, assistant professor of speech, the University has one of the outstanding clinical testing and training programs in the nation.

In addition to giving guidance to Bowling Green students, the department conducts an out-patient clinic for individuals from three to seventy years old. Each Wednesday, from 1:30 to 5 p.m., out-patients from northwestern Ohio are given speech and hearing examinations. These people are referred to the clinic by physicians, nurses, high school teachers, or parents. Among the various disorders which plague the patients are, articulation defects, voice disorders, stuttering, cleft palate, delayed speech, and hearing defects.

When it is necessary, individuals are referred to laryngologists or neurologists before speech therapy

Frosh Gridders Beat Heidelberg For Initial Win

Bowling Green's powerful freshman team rolled to its first win Friday 12 to 6 against Heidelberg at Tiffin.

Spearheaded by the flashy running of Quentin Smith and the pin-point passing of Jack Giroux, the Falcon backs ground out yardage at will. Numerous penalties, however, hampered BG advances throughout the game.

Smith scored both touchdowns and had two others called back because of penalties. One of the touchdowns called back was a 60-yard run. Larry Kent also lost a touchdown when he fumbled in the end zone. A Heidelberg player recovered for a touchback.

BG scored in the first quarter when Smith raced 45 yards from a pitchout. A Heidelberg back then carried the ensuing kick off all the way for the tying touchdown.

Smith tallied the winning points in the third quarter on a quick burst from the seven.

Tim Murnen was the big man on the Falcon forward wall that held Heidelberg in check.

Sociology Students Observe Agencies

A class of six sociology students, all senior girls, go to Toledo every Thursday to study and observe various welfare agencies. The students are: Carolyn Slater, Min Karas, Carol Crane, Kathleen Burkley, Jane Super, and Virginia Bowman.

Arrangements are made every semester for advanced students to work in places such as Juvenile Court, Child Welfare Agency, and with the Girl Scouts. Some of these students go on to be graduate assistants, and others stay and work with the agencies that they have studied. At present there are two graduates in the Child Welfare Bureau from Bowling Green.

Hecker Moved To Halfback Valuable Man To New Game

By BOB LAUER

One of the most versatile players on the Falcon squad this year is Jack Hecker. Hecker was switched from the end position to halfback this year and has shown, in just six games, that it was a wise decision for Coach Whittaker to make.

His pass receiving and ball running have played an important part in the Falcon strategy this season. Also, the fact that he has always been a 60-minute ball player, all through high and prep school, has made him one of the key men on the team.

The 6-foot, 2-inch sophomore, who scales 185 pounds, has proven that he can kick the ball as well as catch and run it.

Hecker was an outstanding athlete in his home town of Olmstead Falls. He received letters in football and track and was named to the All-Ohio basketball team in his senior year. That same year, the football team took the all-scholastic football championship in the Cleveland area. Before coming to Bowling Green, Hecker spent one year at Manlius prep school, in Syracuse.

While he was there he participated in track and basketball, and was a regular on the football squad. That year Manlius went undefeated and finished second in the eastern football league.

The Hecker name isn't new in football, for Jack has two brothers who play for the Los Angeles Rams. It isn't unusual to say,

Falcon Harriers Fall To Miami Thinclads

The Falcon harriers, both the varsity and freshman teams, traveled to Miami U last Saturday afternoon only to receive a double dousing from the Redskins. The varsity bowed by a 49-15 score while the freshmen did near the same losing 42-15.

In the varsity meet the Redskins put the first six men over the finish line in order. Miami's Dave Wood scored for the varsity in 21:21 for top time of the meet. The first Falcon to stop the clock was Dean Marr, running seventh, at 22:40. Following Marr were Walt Duricy in ninth spot, and Ray Bertelsen, tenth.

The story was much the same with the freshmen squad. Miami took the first five places in order. Oglesby was the first man home for the freshmen, scoring sixth.

shafts. The idea is to allow the child to freely express himself without being disturbed by outsiders. In this way a closer understanding can be maintained between the clinical tester and the patient.

Often, small children who will not talk to counselors or therapists will speak when left alone. For this purpose, a playroom, complete with toys and facilities to keep the small-fry occupied, is available.

Recording equipment allows the patient to hear the progress he is making in correcting his own speech. Dr. Hyman said that it is important that the patient be made aware of this progress.

In addition to conducting its own program, the speech and hearing clinic works in cooperation with the education and psychology departments. Students of the University who are found to have poor reading habits due to a speech defect are sent to the clinic for guidance.
